February 11th Set for Hawaiian Holiday

Where To Go For Your Holiday . . .

Here are a couple of places for you to go for your very next holiday and you won't regret you made the trip.

WELCOME TO POWELL RIVER

Powell River is the location of one of B.C.'s earliest pulp and paper mills, for which construction started in 1910, around what was then "a company town." Now it has a population of 11,000, with another 3,500 people in Lund, Saltery Bay and Texada areas. The "company store" and "company houses" have been sold and the community is now a self-governing body, with a Reeve and Council.

Many interesting lakes, picnic spots, hiking and skiing trails and endless vistas of natural beauty lie close at hand, easy to reach by car and boat. Lying in the gulf current, Powell River's climate is mild, winter and summer, with low annual rainfall (less than 35" average vs Vancouver 40" average) and few weather extremes.

The community is divided into four areas: Westview, Townsite, Wildwood and Cranberry, as a result of development in the 1930s, when separate villages and improvement districts were organized. All were amalgamated into one large municipality in 1955.

You will find all the services normally expected and you will find people anxious to help you, and make you enjoy your visit—and who will be happy to see you again.

LUND THE BEAUTIFUL

The settlement of Lund pre-dates Powell River and most places on this part of the Coast. In 1889 brothers Fred and Charles Thulin came to settle in the bay, and named it after the university city of Lund, near where they were born in Sweden. In 1891 they built the first hotel, and in 1905 they built the second (and present) hotel, which was later added to; in 1918 the inevitable fire levelled the first hotel.

The present tavern was originally a bar (the first licence north of Vancouver) and some of its fittings have been preserved for use. With modernizations to meet the visitor needs of today, the building still retains its old charm, and its walls could tell many tales of gold-rush days, stormtossed waters, rugged pioneer determination, tragedy and happiness.

Lund's location is superb, commanding view of surrounding islands, with Vancouver Island in the distance . . . yet it retains all of its off-the-beaten-path charm and interest.

Wooded trails and inland lakes nestle near the bay, fishing craft of every kind call its harbour "home" and Lund offers pleasure craft a conveniently-central starting place for fishing, hunting, picnic . . . or just waterborne sightseeing.

A boat ramp, safe anchorage, well-stocked store, launderette, ice facilities, water, land and air taxi, machine shop and ways, restaurant, tavern, post office, boat rental, fuel, trailer parking, excellent salt or fresh-water fishing—all these are at Lund.

At nearby Powell River, 15 miles over paved road, is the world's largest single-unit pulp and paper manufactory; ferry links to Vancouver mainland and Vancouver Island complete the accessibility. Lund is not for the sophisticate, but for the visitor who appreciates modern conveniences amid yet-unspoiled beauty of the western coast. B.C. is beautiful . . . and Lund is one of B.C.'s most beautiful spots and just like the end of the world, as the road does not go any farther.

A most beautiful spectacle to see, once there you will never forget it and remember this spot was really started by Scandinavians, namely Swedish people and there are quite a few Scandinavians living in Lund at present.

To get to these two places, you go out from Horseshoe Bay in Vancouver by Ferry to Earl's Cove, then drive a few miles and again a Ferry to Saltery Bay. A beautiful winding road the rest of the way. The scenery is just out of this world.

Outdoor Writers Propose Unusual Project For 1967

A unique project has been announced by the Outdoor Writers of Canada (150 members). The Canadian organization wants to stage a world congress of outdoor writers in Montreal Oct. 1-16, Writers from 40 countries including the Soviet Union, representing eight geographical areas of the world, have been invited to attend. Later the discussions and papers will be condensed and published in 1967 as the association's contribution to Centennial observances in Canada.

MANITOBA'S VIKINGS . . .

This is an intimate view of the Icelanders in Manitoba. It is also a thorough and convincing chronicle of the Icelandic experience in this province, running some 519 pages exclusive of appendices. It is the sort of book that will be read with deepening awareness of the exhaustive research that was required for its publication.

With this work now available, it will be possible for those of us of Icelandic descent who wish to do so to get our own knowledge of events into the broader Manitoba development perspective. The reading of this book will sharpen our memory of the countless stories we were told over the years in bits and snatches. Here, at least, the story is of one piece. Here we are able to dip into our past to examine in fine detail the stuff of our own development as a distinctive ethnic group.

The writing of this book was made possible through the award of a fellowship to the author by the Manitoba Historical Society. It is introduced warmly by a foreword written by Professor Bessason of the University of Manitoba pointing out that it is the "first comprehensive study of its kind in the English language."

For people of other ethnic origins, The Icelandic People in Manitoba will open vistas of new and deeper understanding of characteristics of the Icelandic Canadian that may have been puzzling heretofore. I say this advisedly because the author has provided relatively little interpretation of the events recorded. But he has managed to link events in such a way that the elements of those events suggest the essential features of the emerging community.

This, then is an encyclopedic survey of the development of the Icelandic community and its subsequent assimilation into the mainstream of social and economic life both in Manitoba and elsewhere in Canada. We learn why Icelanders finally selected Manitoba as their home and why the shores of Lake Winnipeg and the Icelandic River became the site of the colony. For one thing, "there was ample room for an exclusively Icelandic colony." Perhaps the most satisfying aspect of the book is the detailed account, almost day by day, of how this group of immigrants established themselves in a new land. The

On the evening of February 11th, 1966, 82 happy people will board Wardair's DC6B aircraft at the International Airport in Edmonton for a sun-filled sixteen days of fun in balmy Hawaii.

Our first stop will be in Portland for refuelling. This stop will only hold us up for 45 minutes, just enough to get out and stretch our legs, and perhaps get a cup of coffee. Then on to Honolulu.

HAWAIIAN GREETING

Dave Lum, Wardair's representative in Hawaii, will greet us at the airport with an authentic Hawaiian welcome. His welcoming committee will consist of a Hawaiian girl and man. The passengers will receive the traditional lei and a Hawaiian kiss. Pictures will be taken of the greeting and the passengers will have an opportunity to purchase pictures for souvenirs.

Incidentally, first class meals and refreshments are served on board the aircraft.

Your baggage will be tagged in Edmonton, loaded on the plane and when the plane lands in Honolulu, it is transported to the hotel and directly to your room, where it will be waiting for you when you check in. No tipping, isn't that thoughtful?

BOOKED AT BILTMORE

We are booked at the Waikiki Biltmore, on a beautiful sandy beach. Each room has a lanai or balcony, and even the rooms that do not face the waterfront have a beautiful view. Each room has a small fridge for ice cubes. Coffee makers, with coffee and milk supplied free of charge in each room.

Dave Lum's office is in the lobby of our hotel, and we will be taken to the top floor of the hotel for a welcome party. From the balcony which surrounds this floor, we have a spectacular view of the ocean. Mr. Lum will be our host and will be pleased to answer questions and brief us on tourist attractions, places to dine, tours and many other points of interest. There is entertainment in the hotel bar every night. Swimming and scuba diving instructions are available at a nominal cost. Surf boards can be rented just 50 yards from the hotel.

INTERNATIONAL MARKET

The Waikiki Biltmore is situated in the centre of Waikiki Beach. One block behind it is the International Market, which should yield some unusual souvenirs. There is a world famous zoo within walking distance of the Hotel. On Saturday afternoons, on the front wall of this zoo, artists hang their paintings and peddle them to tourists. For the golf enthusiast, there is a golf course just six blocks away.

On the day of departure we will be taken to a famous Chinese restaurant for a nine course Farewell Dinner.

HAWAIIAN NIGHT

If this is your first visit to Hawaii, I would suggest that you obtain a copy of the book "Hawaii" by James A. Mitchener. It gives a very good description of how the islands were formed, its strange mixture of races, etc. It is very interesting and will give you a very good background of the country itself.

Watch for the Notice of our Hawaiian Night, complete with films, entertainment and travelogue. Don't wait until then to book your reservation—they may be all gone by then. Phone Elsie Comin, at 433-5659 now. She will be very pleased to give you any information available. We would also like to hear about other countries our membership would be interested in visiting.

"Government Loan," the founding of the first newspaper, the immediate attention given to organized education and religious teaching, the development of trade and commerce and the "early years in Winnipeg" are all thoroughly documented.

This is also the story of the principal characters—the men and women who gave the essential color to this venture into the unknown. In the main, however, references to individuals are brief and the author treats his characters gently. The author's treatment of individuals has the flavor of an invitation to future historians to explore more fully the imprint of these individuals.

The illustrations in the book will make it a collector's item. "Shanty Town about 1880," "The Falcons," "The Landing at Willow Point," are but a few of those provided. Equally treasured will be the large number of photos of individuals and groups.

The charm of the book does not lie in its humor, of which there is little, nor in its central thesis—for there is none. Rather, it lies in the skill of the author in both the selection and treatment of landmarks in the evolution of the Icelandic community.

FROM THE SECRETARY'S DESK . . .

BY MRS. LINNEA LODGE

THANKSGIVING DAY - 1965 . . .

During the month of October we will be observing Thanksgiving Day. This is a time when we are grateful for the bounty of food which again is available to feed us. Perhaps on this continent we do not realize the importance of this fact. In some countries the soil is poor, the cattle become diseased or a drought season is upon them. Especially in Canada where we have just had such a bounteous crop of wheat we are indeed thankful.

Tomorrow is not promised us,
So let us take today
And make the most of it
The once we pass this way.
Just speak aloud the kindly thought,
And do the kindly deed;
And try to see and understand
Some fellow creature's need.
Tomorrow is not promised us,
Nor any other day;
So let us make the most of it
The once we pass this way.

A CALL ON SCANDINAVIAN CULTURE . . .

At a recent function I attended several young men expressed their interest in trying to learn the dance steps of the hambo. Although I enjoy this dance myself, don't believe I could adequately teach anyone else. Surely there is someone who would like to teach a group during the winter season. There must be other Scandinavian dances which should be preserved. May we hear from either instructors or potential students and we could possibly arrange for space and time at the Centre.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEET SEPTEMBER 14, 1965 . . .

- The Winter Holiday Charter will go to Hawaii rather than Nassau.
- The total profit from the Exhibition booth is $951.56.
- The New Year's Eve Party is being arranged for by Mrs. Elsie Comin and the tickets will be limited. If you plan to attend it will not be too early to start getting your party together.
- A vote of thanks is extended to both Mrs. Chris Pearson and Mrs. Gertrude Holmgren who ably assisted in the Manager's office during Mr. Tom Nielsen's vacation.
- The dates for Charter Flights to Scandinavia for the summer will be announced next month.

COPENHAGEN CHARTER RETURNS . . .

Flight Director Vera Nielsen and her planeload of passengers returned the latter part of August. They all spent a happy eight weeks overseas.

RENTAL POLICY . . .

It has been pretty well decided that each of the ethnic groups will pay for the space as it is used. Non revenue producing events will only pay a nominal fee.

He has been a dedicated worker for the Social Credit movement since 1935, and has extensive knowledge of Social Credit philosophy of life and government.

He was first elected constituency president in 1961, and is presently serving as president and chief organizer for the Edmonton-Strathcona Constituency.

WHY I AM A CANDIDATE FOR SOCIAL CREDIT . . .

(Speech Delivered at The Park Hotel
September 21, 1965)

This evening I want to reveal to you some of the reasons why I am a Social Credit candidate for the November 8 election. At the outset, I want to assure you that it is not for personal glory or self-aggrandizement . . . nor for the salary of an M.P. . . . nor for want of something to do . . . nor because politics is easy. It is not for business reasons, because I already have a good insurance business established over 17 years. I am not seeking a political appointment as do some, particularly lawyers. It is not because I want to move away from Edmonton or get away from my family, for I love both too well.

Rather it is because of a deep-rooted conviction that Social Credit is the answer to many of our present-day problems, if our principles and policies could be applied on a national basis. I'm convinced that Social Credit is the only alternative to the creeping Socialism of the old-line parties and the Socialism of the N.D.P.

What Alberta has—Canada needs . . . and needs desperately! Leadership . . . the kind of leadership exemplified so well in our Premier. Stability . . . which gives Albertans confidence in their government. Progress . . . Alberta leads the way among the provinces of Canada.

It was 30 years ago last December. I had no money to go home for the Christmas holidays; the School Board of the Home Valley School near Provost, Alberta, could not pay me the agreed salary of $60.00 per month. Nobody else had any money—it was the hungry thirties.

told us there was no need for poverty in the midst of plenty. He was so right! There was an abundance of real wealth; only one thing was missing — money — and without money people could not buy the goods and services offered by their fellow men.

So I went to work with purpose and dedication to do something about it. I spent those Christmas holidays walking from farm to farm through the deep snow. We signed up many members and formed the first and the largest group in the then Czar Constituency. Those were exciting days! Under the able leadership of Mr. Aberhart groups were formed in all parts of our fair province, and we made history. The first Social Credit Government in the world was swept into power on September 3, 1935.

So much for history. You and I are enjoying the fruits of 30 years of good government in this province. The sound money policy, the sound management of our natural resources, has placed this province in the lead among the provinces of Canada. As Albertans we are proud of this accomplishment.

Today, however, there is still poverty in the midst of plenty in parts of Canada, although the cause is somewhat different. Then it was simply a shortage of money in circulation to buy the goods and services available. Today the automated machine is replacing the labor of man. Man without work has no money. In addition to unemployment, many in our society find that their increasing wages cannot keep pace with the increasing taxes and increasing cost of living. Social Credit has the answers to increasing cost of living and unemployment. That is why I am offering my services to you as a federal candidate.

Let us for a moment discuss principles, for I'm sure you will agree that good government is based on good and sound principles. I want you to know that I stand unreservedly behind the four basic principles of Social Credit. These will be my guide in making decisions, if elected as your Member of Parliament for Edmonton Strathcona. What are these principles?

PRINCIPAL NO. 1:

We want to live in a society where the individual is the most important factor . . . not merely a cog in the wheel; where individuality is encouraged; where the potential of each individual has the opportunity to develop to the utmost; where the individual is not a slave to labor, management, the machine, or government itself.

This is, of course, where we differ from the Socialists. They hold that the state is the most important and that the individual should be subservient to the state. The Socialists say that the state should own industries, businesses and services, and decide what is best for the individual. This shifting of responsibility from the individual to the state is quite evident today. We believe that individual enterprise is the best way of developing our society, and this has been proven. (e.g.—The U.S.A., with only 6% of the world's land and 7% of the world's people, produces 45% of the world's wealth.) We believe that governments exist to assist individuals in attaining their desires by their own initiative and by their own enterprise. So we believe that you, the individual citizen, is the most important unit in organized society.

PRINCIPAL NO. 2:

We want to live in a society where the major function of government is to bring to the people the

Individuals, Too, Can Contribute To Plans For Centennial Year

After reading about the millions of dollars being spent and the big projects under way for Canada's Centennial you may wonder how this affects you, or, more than likely, wonder how you as an individual can do something to help in making ready for this memorable year of 1967.

Monuments of stone and steel are not the objective of the Centennial. These are only symbols of what we have become as a nation. The success of the Centennial depends on the support of every citizen to help initiate and plan projects in his own area and neighborhood.

If you are not already a member of a local Centennial Committee there are ways in which you can take part: through your company, your union, your church, your home club or other association. If they have not yet started to plan a Centennial project you can help them get started.

An example? St. Paul, Alberta, northeast of Edmonton. This small (pop. 3,000) community now has 25 local Centennial projects under way, ranging from sponsoring a trip to Paris for a local Indian in 1967 to a Centennial collection of pioneer photographs of the area. All thought up by local citizens, these plans will make 1967 a memorable year indeed for St. Paul. You can do the same.

the results they want from the management of their public affairs.

I know and have personally visited many people in our constituency. If I am elected as your representative, I will keep in close touch with all my people so that I will know their needs; in this way I will be an effective voice in Ottawa for Edmonton Strathcona. There must be a close liaison between the people and their representative for Democracy to function effectively. Government must work for the people . . . not the people for the government.

PRINCIPLE NO. 3:

We want to live in a society where we may enjoy the greatest possible security.

Security alone is not enough. You can have security in jail, but it isn't the kind of security that most people want or enjoy. While visiting in the land of my parents, Norway, I learned that people were quite secure, perhaps more so than here, but they were not nearly as free as we are here to get ahead. Heavy taxes keep them down so that they cannot acquire many of the luxuries of life that we enjoy. No people on earth value freedom more than do Norwegians. When they won their political freedom at the close of World War II, the Norwegian flag was raised in jubilation everywhere. Since the end of World War II they have been gradually losing their economic freedom. It is not surprising that they overthrew the socialist labor government, in the recent election. This should be a lesson for us. I believe the people of Canada and especially of this constituency have had enough bungling and socialism in the last three parliaments of the old-line parties. Social Credit is the only alternative which will give security with freedom.

PRINCIPLE NO. 4:

We want to live in a society where what is physically possible and desirable and morally right can be made financially possible.

Social Credit proposes certain adjustments to the financial system to make this principle effective.

We can make financially possible world wars and the propelling of space ships into the universe; therefore it is foolish to say that we cannot make desirable things financially possible if we want to do so.

These four principles are so important, so basic to our free way of life, that I ask you to commit to memory and apply them to your thinking about our public affairs.

On principles alone, I suggest to you that the Canadian people have one of two choices—they can vote for Social Credit and free, competitive enterprise, OR they can vote for one of the other parties which lead us down the road where the individual citizen will ultimately surrender all his freedom—a dictatorship from which there is no return except revolution.

The Edmonton Journal is often not very kind to us, but I did discover this rare gem in Basil Dean's column entitled "Publisher's Notebook." I quote:

"Current Social Credit philosophy as interpreted by Mr. Manning would provide a genuine choice as opposed to any of the other three parties."

I would like to suggest to you how these principles can be applied in four areas of government responsibility . . . four planks of a platform that can be transformed into action when you elect a Social Credit Government in Ottawa.

PLANK NO. 1:

Loans at cost made available to provincial and municipal governments to finance their public programs—schools, hospitals, etc. With the proper use of Social Credit—the credit of society—effected through the Bank of Canada, money for all our public programs could be made available at less than 1%, so the economists say.

Take for example the Strathcona Composite High School. It cost approximately $3 million to build. It will have cost double that amount, or $6 million, by the time it is paid for under present methods of financing. Is it any wonder that your school taxes are so high? With Social Credit in Ottawa your property taxes could be cut almost in half.

A classic example of the high cost of our public programs under present methods of financing is the boardwalks of Vancouver. They were built in 1912 at a cost of $100,000; by the time the final payment was made in 1962 they cost the Vancouver taxpayers $345,000. The paradox of it is that the sidewalks never earned a nickel's profit and rotted away more than 30 years ago.

Friends, even if Social Credit had no other plank, this one alone would make it worthy of your support.

PLANK NO. 2:

the whole complex tax structure. There are so many taxes now that even the taxes are taxed. (e.g.—you are paying income tax on your property tax.) Is it not time that your property tax was deducted from your income for income tax purposes to avoid the double taxation?

For political reasons the Pearson government reduced personal income tax by 10% on July 1, 1965. What a farce, when six months later (January 1, 1966) he will levy a further 3.6% on Canadian income to finance the Canadian Pension Plan. The net result in 1966 will be a greater tax load and less take-home pay for the small wage-earner. I'm sure the Canadian public will not fall for this gimmick.

Do you know that it costs more to collect some taxes than the tax itself? I believe that the only fair and equitable tax is income tax. Sales taxes are odnoxious to the businessman, are unnecessarily complicated and hinder private enterprise.

I travelled through nine western states on my holidays, and all except one have sales tax. The state of Arizona had removed their sales tax one month prior to our visit to that state. I can tell you it was a real pleasure to come back to Alberta . . . to eat a breakfast in Lethbridge and find that for the first time in three weeks I did not have to pay a sales tax on my breakfast.

People are being fooled by the many hidden taxes. Do you know that in 1960 government was taking 43% of the earnings of Canadian people, in one form or another? It is higher today! If it gets much higher, people are going to say to government: "You might as well take all my earnings and look after me from the cradle to the grave." That's Socialism. You, as electors, have a very serious decision to make on November 8th. You have to decide which road to take. The more you ask government to do for you, the more taxes you will have to pay the government, the less you are free to spend yourself.

PLANK NO. 3:

To make available to every citizen in need a basic income. The fear of poverty and insecurity is deterrent to the progress and happiness of us all. Should you be disabled, unable to work because of illness or become unemployed, you would apply to the government for a basic income sufficient for food, clothing and shelter. There would be no means test. Responsibility would remain with the citizen to decide whether he had a need. This would see you through a period of adversity until you were able to earn an income once again.

If a citizen abused his privilege, the entire amount could be taken back at income tax time.

This basic income would replace many of the welfare schemes now in existence, and thus simplify the whole welfare structure, fast growing out of hand. It would put teeth into our third principle—"Freedom with Security."

PLANK NO. 4:

Adoption of a voluntary, prepaid, state-subsidized Medicare Plan, such as we have in Alberta—the Alberta Medical Plan.

The cost of the compulsory medical plan proposed by the present government is too high. Let us look at the record for the past seven years from 1958-1964. The average deficit of the federal and provincial governments was $670 million. That means that governments spent $670 million more than they took in, so had to borrow the money. The Medicare Plan proposed by the Liberal government is estimated to cost $500 million in the first year and grow to $1 billion in two years. If they cannot manage their financial affairs better than they have in the past, they are certainly not going to balance the budget of the future with a further expenditure of $500 million annually. If they do, then it means one of two things:

- (1) Sharply increased taxes; or
- (2) Sharply increased deficits, which in turn means sharply increased interest charges on the huge debt, which in turn means increased taxes to pay the interest on this debt.

A voluntary, prepaid, state-subsidized medical insurance program can and will achieve every objective of a compulsory state medicare plan, at a fraction of the cost to the public treasury and without any of its objectionable features. It is estimated that it would cost the public treasury $150 million as compared with the $500 million to $1 billion cost of the federal scheme.

Let there be no mistake about it! I want medical services made available at a price that every citizen can afford. We all want this. In fact, we want it to be more comprehensive so that it will include other health services such as chiropracter, drugs prescribed by a physician, etc. It's the method . . . the how . . . that's wrong with the federal scheme. A big percentage of Canadians can pay for their own medical services or can pay the premiums for insurance. Why should the state pay the premiums for them? Why should we be compelled to take insurance if we wish to pay the bills as they arise? Freedom to choose is one of our basic rights. Let's preserve it!

Finally, I want you to know that I am a candidate for Social Credit because I am proud of our leaders and of the fine men and women who are attracted to this movement.

When the Conservatives are elected, they forsake their leaders (and I'm sure the Canadian public can see through the Hees arrangement).

When the Liberals are elected, they forsake their principles, and of this we've had plenty of proof during the last parliament.

We in Social Credit will never forsake our principles, nor our leaders . . . Mr. Manning and our national leader, Mr. Thompson. I wonder if we fully realize and appreciate that in Mr. Manning and Mr. Thompson we have the most honorable, the most honest, the most responsible statesman in Canada today. Let's get out and fight for them and for the principles for which they stand! We must do our part and win Edmonton Strathcona for Social Credit.

We in the West are proud of our own product . . . Social Credit. We must lead the way in Canada by electing 40-50 Social Credit M.P.s. Voting for the old-line parties in federal elections does not speak well for Alberta. In checking Hansard, I find that none of the 15 M.P.s praise Alberta for anything good they have done, and you know why! Furthermore, it is not logical to vote Social Credit provincially and something else federally. The rest of Canada is waiting for us to take the lead. So let's vote according to our convictions. Let's be true to the West.

Once again I would ask you to pay close attention to the four basic principles of Social Credit:

- 1. The individual is the most important factor in organized society.
- 2. The major function of government is to bring to the people the results they want from the management of their affairs.
- 3. Freedom with security, can be made financially possible.

Let these be our guide in our public affairs, and we shall not go far wrong.

The four planks will reduce your property taxes, will give security to each citizen without sacrificing independence and freedom, and will make health services available to all Canadians on a voluntary basis.

With these thoughts in mind, I ask for your support in the hectic November 8 election.

Dance Held To Raise Money
For Wheelchair

On July 19th 1965, a motorized wheelchair was delivered to John Jarret at St. Joseph's Hospital.

On September 10th a Dinner and Dance was held at the Scandinavian Centre to try to raise the money to pay for the chair. Much to the gratification of the Committee working on the project the event was a Success.

The evening started at 6:30 with cocktails in the Viking Room. At 7:15, 185 guests sat down to a scrumptious roast beef dinner, prepared by Hannah Sand and Mary Brodie. Incidentally, these two ladies deserve a hearty vote of thanks for their efforts in this regard.

After dinner, we were privileged to hear a talk by Pierre Gariepy, executive director of the Canadian Paraplegic Association. If we had any doubts about our project, we certainly did not have them after Mr. Gariepy's talk. Not only is the wheelchair helping John, who is the most handicapped patient at St. Joseph's, but it is also helping fellow patients. They feel that his accomplishments are an incentive for them as well, and John has accomplished a great deal in the past two months.

Also, he is more cheerful and he seems to have a purpose in life.

Music was provided by the Checkmates, who started playing right after the dinner, and kept on playing as long as there was anyone dancing. At intermission we were entertained by a Magician's Act, which was very enjoyable and amusing; the humor being caused by the Magician's assistants.

Our host and hostess for the evening were Don and Evelyn Johnson. The balance of the Committee were Henry and Linnea Lodge, Willard and Evelyn Modin and Larry and Elsie Comin. Master of Ceremonies was Doug Morris.

The response was very heartwarming. The Committee wishes to extend their sincere appreciation for the wonderful co-operation of the members of Vasa Order of America to Jorgensen and Alloway for acting as trustees and to anyone else who assisted in any way. Special thanks to the persons who purchased 39 tickets, which were strictly donations. As our host said, "God Bless You All."

Generalforsamling Monday, Oct. 25th, 8:00 p.m. at the Scandinavian Centre DANIA Room. This year we try a Monday and hope it will satisfy everyone to the extent that you will come and take part. This is very important for the Society, more so this year than ever as we need more new directors as usual. The ones who were elected last year either have left town or resigned for various reasons. Please show yourself to help "DANIA" be better than ever. Let us not lack behind the rest of the Scandinavian Clubs, they are all strong. We need your support, also for the good of the Scandinavian Centre.

Don't let us down, remember the date—no excuse for that as you members will receive a notice in the mail too. MONDAY, OCT. 25th at 8:00 p.m.

Don't forget to listen to your Danish program over CKUA on Sunday, Oct. 10th and 24th at 4:10 p.m. and send in your comments about the program to Eric Pedersen, CKUA Radio Station, Jasper Ave., Edmonton, he will be pleased to hear from you.

A few of our members have moved to new addresses as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Poul Jacobsen, 9031 146 St.; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Mogensen, 11222 85 St.; Mr. and Mrs. Per Arnt, 12368 132 St.

We hope everyone has had a good holiday this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nielsen had a very enjoyable two weeks holiday when they drove over the Hart Highway to Vancouver, from there to Powell River, north of Vancouver, then took the Ferry across to Comox on Vancouver Island, drove down to Victoria, then the Ferry to Vancouver, home over the Princeton Highway down to Radium Hot-springs. They stayed at White Lodge Motel there (one of our advertisers, you should try it sometime, six miles from the Hotsprings, a wonderful place to stay if you have children along, too)

Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen visited a lot of old friends on their way. A very relaxing holiday for both of them. Only the weather—oh, that weather. It could have been better.

Her father: "Have you seen my wife?"

Young man: "Yeah—say, I am doing better than you did."

If he walks through a door ahead of her, the woman with him is his wife.

In choosing a wife, a man can't be too careful. If he is, he'll never marry.
